COMMUNITY RELATIONS POLICY

Our recognition for the local content policy of the federal government is shown by our commitment to local content initiatives. This has led us to develop a community relation's policy that guides our operations in the Niger Delta in promoting peace and pursuing mutually beneficial relationship.

South Western Technologies & Oilfield Services Limited policies are as follows: -

- Continuously dialogue with our base location host communities to better understand their concerns, needs and aspirations; attain good level of cooperation and avoid any disruption like base closure or staff kidnap.
- Respond to reasonable formal base location host community requests in an appropriate and timely manner.
- Bring all relevant issues affecting base location host community to the attention of appropriate authorities for action and follow up.
- Maintain at peace time, mutual respect by keeping to our words/promises.
- Notify community king/leader of any intention to terminate their indigenes.
- Establish on going contacts with Oil Company's community affairs coordinators/liaison officers of field locations with planned activities.

- Have a 2 to 3 months' operation lead meeting on activity as regards progress being made with field location communities (in transit and well site locations) by the oil company's CLO to help job planning.
- Have the oil company go ahead of us always to settle the field location communities as much as possible and give us the green-light for safe operation and/or no community disturbance expected.
- Ensure that when field community insists that Service Company despite Oil Company having settled the community pays a token homage at well site, the token homage should be paid to get the job done.
